For the prevention and cure of
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended
HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

RAN AWAY from Peter Graham, living near Middleburg, Loudoun county, Va. on the night of the 25th of March last, a very likely Negro girl, named ANN, purchased of Wm. Noland, living at Aldie, Loudoun county, whose family she was raised in. She is of a yellow complexion, round faced, thick lips, with large staring eyes, and rather delicate featured for a slave;—small feet, a tolerable ready speech, and mild with it; about 18 years of age, middle size, and very well made; rather thick, about 5 feet high from appearance. She had on when she went away a dress of coating cloth, made in a coat and jacket, with skirts of a brown snuff color. I have reason to believe she is in or near Philadelphia or New-York. I will give fifty dollars reward if taken in Fauquier, Loudoun, Prince William, or Fairfax counties, or the District of Columbia, if taken in any other county or state, and secured in any jail, so that I obtain information and get her, I will give one hundred dollars, and all reasonable charges paid in either case, if brought home.

THE FLOWER OF LOVE.

'Tis said the rose is Love's own flower,
Its blush so bright, its thorns so many;
And winter on its bloom has power,
But has not on its sweetness any.

For though young Love's ethereal rose
Will droop on Age's wintry bosom,
Yet still his faded leaves disclose
The fragrance of their earliest blossom.

But ah! the fragrance lingering there,
Is like the sweets that mournful duty
Bestows, with sadly-soothing care,
To deck the grave of Bloom and Beauty.

For when its leaves are shrunk and dry,
Its blush extinct, to kindle never,
That fragrance is but Memory's sigh,
That breathes of pleasures past forever.

Why did not Love the amaranth choose,
That bears no thorns, and cannot perish?
Alas! no sweets its flowers diffuse,
And only sweets Love's life can cherish.

But be the rose and amaranth twin'd,
And Love, their mingled powers assuming,
Shall round his brows a chaplet bind,
For ever sweet, for ever blooming.

THE LARGE LIE AND THE LITTLE LIE.

A merchant was going through a slave market one day, and happened to see a broker holding a boy by the ear for sale, and calling out, who will purchase a youth accomplished, sensible, and faithful, for one hundred dirhums? 'Why, my good sir,' said the merchant, 'I suspect you must be crazy, for if your boy possess the qualities you mention, he is worth a thousand dirhums.' 'O,' said the broker, 'you see him shining and take him for silver, but if you were acquainted with his failing, you would probably find him copper.' 'Pray what is his failing, said the merchant, and what do you think the cause of it?' 'He tells every year,' said the broker, 'a great lie and a little tie, and each of these I consider as a very serious evil.' 'Pooh, pooh!' said the merchant, 'I look upon this as a mere trifle.' He accordingly purchased the boy and took him into his service, and finding him expert and skilful in duty, placed him at the head of his servants. But it happened some time after, that the merchant, accompanied by several of his acquaintances, went out to his garden, and sent the boy home about sunset to bring him his ass; but the boy, as soon as he approached his master's house, rent his clothes, and threw dust upon his head, and exclaimed, 'O alas, alas, my master! the lord of my bounty!' The merchant's wife concluded, from his appearance, that some misfortune had happened to him, and said, 'alas, boy, what is the meaning of this outcry?' 'Ah!' replied he, 'the roof of the house has fallen in upon my master and crushed him to pieces with all the other merchants.' The wives of the merchants, who happened to be invited there by the lady of the house, as soon as they heard the report of the slave, beat their faces in despair, and began to run towards the garden, but the boy got before them and entered it, tearing his clothes, like a frantic person, and throwing dust on his head, in the same manner as he had done before the women. The merchants, surprized at his appearance, asked the cause of his distress. 'Ah! I believe,' he replied, a spark of fire 'escaped from the hands of one of the maid-servants, and has set fire to your house, and I do not think there is a single child that has not been burned to death, nay not one even of your maid-servants, nor one of your wives.' The merchants, hearing this, ran out, all distracted: one weeping for his sister and wife, the other for the daughter of his relation: but, when they got about half way home both parties met on the road, and every one saw their friend safe, and discovered that the whole was a trick played upon them by the lying varlet. 'What has tempted you,' said his master, 'to this act?'—'Do you not know,' replied the boy, 'that I was bound to tell you every year a great lie and a little one.' 'Well, said the merchant, 'and under what class must I place the present? Is this the large lie or the little one?' 'O this is the little lie,' repied the boy; 'the large one you shall have by and by!" 'This little lie,' said the merchant, 'will answer my purpose. I now give you your liberty; so set off, and find some other person of more consequence to practise your large lie upon.'

ALEXANDRIA:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1818.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Friday, February 6, 1818.

Yesterday, was the claim of major-general St. Clair again the subject of a day's discussion in the House of Representatives. Mr. Clay opened the business by a declaration that he would vote against the amendment proposed by Mr. Forsyth, because it supposed that something was due to general St. Clair, which he conscientiously believed was not the case—and that he would vote against the bill in order to open the way for a proposition he intended to offer for a pension to the general for life. If it were within the scope of my scheme of reporting to give in detail all that succeeded that declaration, I should find it scarcely possible to carry the business clearly through the various windings it was whipped through in the course of the day. Mr. Forsyth's amendment was, of course, negatived, and the bill, you will readily conclude, was rejected—or rather, I believe, amended, as it is called, by the proposal of a substitution of something not so good—the grant for life of an annuity of 600 dollars: a motion was made to make it 1000 dollars, which was carried. Mr. Mercer, however, actuated by a just sense of the honor of general St. Clair, opposed it, saying that he could not regard a man who called for justice, and who had, in his opinion, well founded honest claims on government, as an object of compassion; at the same time affirming that he had, the evening before the last, left the house overwhelmed with the most poignant emotions, and his blood curdled in his veins, at the speech of the hon. Speaker, who stood forward on that occasion, against general St. Clair, as the champion of the wounded honor of the congress of 1810. Mr. Mercer then gave the house a perspicuous lucid relation of all the transactions, relative to those claims, between general St. Clair and congress, through which I cannot follow him further than to say that the effect of the whole was to our conviction so clearly demonstrative of general St. Clair's right, as a lender of his money to the United States, in its utmost need, that I do not wish to bring stronger evidence before the judgment seat of heaven to testify to my pretensions, whatever they may be, to mercy. He was thus anxious, he said, upon this part of the subject, because he felt much greater solicitude for the reputation and integrity of general St. Clair, which, till this suggestion was made, stood unimpeached, than for the pittance the house could bestow upon him. Mr. Mercer then entered into a vindication of the general's character on the subject of the general's defeat by the Indians, stating that the artifices of villain calumniators had made such an impression on the public mind, that congress took it up in committee, and after the most full and deliberate consideration, both times reported that his conduct both before and during the engagement and after the defeat, was, as it had ever been, deserving of praise, and that he had displayed the utmost skill and intrepidity.

Mr. Irving of S. Carolina, thought that the honor of the country, as well as of general St. Clair was at stake, and urged the passage of the bill. But that was put at rest by a negative. A motion was then made by Mr. Taylor of N. York, to give general St. Clair a pension of 50 dollars a month—out of this rose several propositions—for 80, for 70, for 60 dollars a month, which last was voted (the question being taken by ayes and noes) by 122 to 40.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time this day.

Mr. Clay having successfully opposed the claim of general St. Clair as a right, pushed his interests with warmth on the proposition for a pension. To acknowledge the justice of general St. Clair's demand would have placed the conduct of the congress of 1810 in a very disadvantageous light—that was, therefore, at all events, to be got rid of; and it was done in a way that would have reflected no discredit on Mr. Pitt and his friends in his proudest day. In order to rescue the fame of general St. Clair from the odium of making an unjust demand, let it be ever so heavy on that congress, Mr. Mercer proposed this preamble: "Whereas the congress of the United States entertain a high sense of the tried integrity, as well as of the civil and military virtues of Arthur St. Clair, late president of the congress and commander in chief of the army of the United States, whom, they learn with regret, has been reduced by misfortune to extreme poverty" This was negatived by 81 to 61. History, however, is an habitual tell-tale, and will not fail on this occasion to speak the truth.

LATEST FROM THE ARMY.

By an intelligent gentleman direct from the south, we learn that the detachment of militia under the command of Gen. Glascock, arrived at camp Cumming, (five miles this side the nearest settlement of Chewaws) on the 11th instant, and it was thought would proceed immediately to a place opposite the first settlement, there to await the orders of Gen. Gaines. An engineer had been despatched to superintend the building of a fort, it was conjectured, at Blackshear's works, (5 miles in the rear of camp Cumming) or at the most eligible situation near there on the Flint river, to which place the army will immediately march when erected. Gen. Gaines was still at Hartford on Tuesday last.

[Milledgeville Reflector.

Extract of a letter, from a gentleman in the army to the editor, dated Camp Cumming, Jan. 14.

"We arrived here after a fatiguing march of 12 days from Hartford, 10 of which rained. The whole of our march has been through a poor, flat, pine woods glades, where I have seen eight horses frequently to a waggon, which they moved with difficulty. This detachment has had constant, various and almost insurmountable difficulties to encounter. We have had many false alarms, but no fighting; nor need there be any apprehension of an attack. A hostile party however, is scouting the neighborhood, consisting of about 30 men, and have rifled the house of a friendly Cheehaw Chief. ib.

The following article was communicated to us by a gentleman of this city.

[N. Y. Daily Adver.

Law proposed by the king of the Netherlands, and to be discussed in the assembly of the states general.

The Tea Company to be dissolved, to return the money to the subscribers with 5 per cent. interest.

The tea trade free.

The duties on imports of teas from China to Batavia in Dutch vessels, and if on Dutch accounts, f. 10 per 100 lbs. for bohea and ordinary congo, of which the value does not exceed 20s and 5f per 100 lbs. for the other sorts. Imports by foreign vessels to pay 8f and 16f per 100 lbs. Exports pay only label duty 1-5 per cent. of the value or 3 1-2 per 100 lbs.

Transit prohibited.

All holders of licenses on which the teas are imported before the 15th Oct. 1818, will have the tea at their immediate disposal, and will have to pay the duties as imported by Dutch vessels.

From Relf's Philadelphia Gazette.

Observations on the Concourse of Tobacco, held at Paris on the 6th Nov.

The tenders sent on this occasion amounted to 8,500 hhds. American tobacco, and 4,000,000 lbs. Indigenous do, out of which quantity the administration purchased 4380 hhds. and 2,000,000 lbs.

Of these 4380 hhds.

2400 hhds. were provided by	Havre
860	Bordeaux
640	Marseilles
480	Nantz

4380 hhds. most of which existing in our entrepots.

The 2400 hhds. sold at Havre were composed of 1860 hhds.	Kent'y. rated at	140 a 165f.

375	Georgia, do.	150
195	Virginia, ord'y.	160
30	Carolina,	155
2400

All the parcels of good Virginia tendered, were refused; not so much on account of their being held at 180 a 190f. as because (though of 1815) they have not acquired sufficient ripeness for immediate use; an advantage of which Kentucky tobacco of last year's crop only was found possessed. Another cause which contributed to the preference given to that quality, was the failure of indigenous crops, which the Kentucky replaced the more advantageously, as its prices was comparatively lower than that fixed for other sorts.

The ordinary was paid	140f
good	150f a 155
best	160f a 165

A parcel of 98 hhds. fetching only 100 a 115 francs, but the tobacco had been cut, and remained more or less tainted with damage.

At Nantz prices were 10f lower; but at Bordeaux good Virginia was rendered even below the rates held at Havre and Marseilles for ordinary Kentucky, v.z: 130 a 137 1-2f.

The 7th concourse, announced on the 20th Dec. next, is not likely to call in very heavy tenders, our existing stock being calculated not to exceed 5000 a 6000 hhds.

We have been assured that the wants of the administration are still great; and that old Virginia and fine Kentucky may, at next concourse, obtain good prices.

FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

Arrived at this port this forenoon, the Viper, Peleg Aborn, of Providence, master, from Buenos Ayres; from whence she sailed on the 6th December. No material occurrence in the affairs of the country had taken place since the last accounts. Things remained in statu quo. Some little skirmishing frequently took place on the frontiers between the Patriots and Royalists, in which the former were generally represented to be victorious.

I enclose you a list of vessels left at the time the Viper sailed.

Left at Buenos Ayres, Dec. 6. ship Globe, Harrison, of Baltimore, loading for N. York; brig Henry, Meldron, of Hartford, to sail in 6 or 8 weeks; ship Orris, Pease, of New-York, uncl.; schr. Patriot, Thompson, of Baltimore, do.:—ship Augustus, Baker, do. do.; ship Augustus, Oliver, of Philadelphia, do. do.; ship Bordeaux, Chase, of N. Y. condemned; ship George Washington, Yeardley, of Philad. uncl; schr. Ellen Tooker, Pond, of N. York, do.; brig Charlotte, Bartlett, of N. York, just arrived; ship Manhattan, of Balt. do.; schr Highflyer, Coleman, do. The brig Hesper, Mason, of N. York, was about to sail from Monte Video; ship Diomede, Page, of Salem, sailed for Bahia two weeks previous.

Markets at Buenos Ayres very dull.

The ships Packet, from Boston, and Ider, from Gibraltar, arrived at Valparaiso about the 23d Oct. The ship Lion, Townsend, of Providence, arrived on the 20th, in 104 days passage. The ship Bengal, of Philad. arrived 22d Oct.

From the Boston Intelligencer.

EXTRAORDINARY SUSCEPTIBILITY OF TOUCH REFUTED.

We have lately seen published the most minute testimony from eye witnesses of the remarkable powers evinced by Miss Margaret M'Avoy, in Liverpool, by which, without the benefit of sight, she could determine accurately the color of cloth, ribbands, glass, and other substances, and also peruse writing and printed books.

The Reverend Mr. Egerton Smith, who was amazed at her first exhibition, has written a subsequent account, by which he intimates his doubts of her fidelity of touch, and his suspicions of her being an imposter. She wears a bandage over her eyes, which when applied to another produces total darkness.

"Before I proceed briefly to record the suspicious symptoms to which I have before alluded, it may be proper to notice, what strikes me as a most palpable inconsistency, between the theory of the young lady herself at one time, and her practice at another.

It is well known to those who have been in the habit of visiting her, that the interposition of any object between her face and the object of her research, entirely deprives her of the faculty to which she lays claim. It was necessary to explain a circumstance so likely to excite a suspicion that she derived her knowledge from the sight, rather than the touch; and it was accordingly given out by herself, that a free and uninterrupted communication between her hands, and her breath was absolutely indispensable.

Soon after this convenient arrangement, she began, however, to assume powers completely at variance with this condition; and either effected or affected wonders, which, in my former letter, I took the liberty to characterise as truly preposterous. It will be sufficient to my present purpose, to select the following specimens from your own narrative, page 68 and 78.

With her hands placed behind her upon the window opposite to the communion end of the church, she told the figures of different people passing; and sometimes named the color of the clothes, &c. Page 68.

She soon after told a purple flower behind her: a light yellow, a marygold, and a small pin-cushion of red cloth under a white handkerchief laying upon her knee. Page 78.

In these marvellous feats, unparalelled in the history of the world, there could be no communication between her hands and her breath; which before, according to her own reiterated assertion, was a locality indispensable to her successful performance; a sine qua non, in default of which the 'faculty uniformly left her.' If there be not a most palpable inconsistency in this circumstance, I must have mistaken the meaning of inconsistency.

Dr. Taylor borrowed from one of the gentlemen present, a walking cane, upon the silver top of which was a large letter (or cypher) deeply engraved. He presented this cane to Miss M'Avoy, in an horizontal position, with the ferrule towards her, and of course the top from her, in such a way, that had she possessed sight, she could not have seen the aforementioned letter.—Upon being required to describe this cane, she immediately decided upon its color—and, with as little hesitation, discovered that the metal which surrounded the upper end was silver; she could make nothing however, of the name piece; but soon after the same cane was presented to her in an upright position, when she instantly declared that there was a large B engraved upon the top; which was as true as that B is the first letter of Belshem.

Mr. C. whose name is at your service when ever required, from his first interview with Miss M'Avoy, which was in company with me, suspected that she could see, notwithstanding the bandage, through which he could not discern any thing, prevailed upon a very intelligent friend to accompany him on his next visit, in order that his conjectures might be confirmed or removed. This friend was Mr. Bradbury, author of the recently published Travels in America; a man of sober judgment and philosophic mind, as any with whom I have ever had the pleasure to be acquainted. After the young lady had gone through the usual routine of performances with the goggles, he was asked to name the color of a peice of cloth, placed behind her, which she attempted to do for some time, without success. In the mean time Mr. C. had taken up the goggles which she had placed upon the table, and had fixed them upon his own face, declaring that the light was thereby completely obscured.—During the time he was thus blinded, and whilst Mr. Bradbury was seated by the fire, apparently taking no notice of what was going forward, he saw the lady quickly withdraw the cloth from behind her, and place it for a moment, before her;—after which she as rapidly replaced it, and then examining it with her fingers, for a few moments longer, she correctly named the color.

Upon another occasion, a gentleman on his way to visit Miss M'Avoy, purchased a common valentine, painted in the usual vulgar, tawdry style of these amatory effusions. Having offered this to the young lady, she proceeded to explain the device, by placing it in the position which she generally prefers having the object stationed; but whether the paper slipped unobserved, or what ever was the occasion, so it happened, that whilst she was describing the figures, &c her fingers were actually tracing the blank paper, at some distance from those figures. The gentleman's mode of explaining this was, that under some favorable circumstance she caught a glimpse of the valentine which having again lost sight of, she attempted to describe entirely from recollection.

At this visit there was also a strange confusion made, by the substitution of one watch for another, to which it bore a perfect resemblance except in the hour of the day, as the fingers had been purposely varied; whilst the fingers of the lady are said to have remained unconscious of the stratagem.

I shall describe one further experiment, distinguished by what was either a singular chance or a very happy thought.—During the visit of the gentleman last mentioned, in company with several others, some colored silk was given to her, which she had undertaken to ascertain, with her hands placed behind her. Not succeeding in this at first, she occasionally brought her fingers near her mouth, as they were not sufficiently warm for her purpose, until they had been breathed upon; when, lo! it was discovered that small shreds of that silk accompanied her fingers, perhaps attached to the nails; and as these shreds approached so near the mouth, the gentleman concluded, with what reason I will not presume to determine, that they could not be very far removed from the eyes.

Having succeeded, as I trust, my dear sir, in showing that my disbelief in some of the prodigies related of Miss M'Avoy rest upon better grounds than "bare assertion, founded upon the opinions of others," I must further observe, that I attribute no motives to the lady in question, upon whose case I should feel disposed to put as favorable a construction, if possible, as that suggested by Peregrinator, in his letter of the 17th ult. within, after professing himself "unwilling to charge her with wilful imposture," he asks, "is it not possible that she is deluding herself; and that she labors under the hallucination of imaginary blindness?

THEATRE.

The Managers are under the disagreeable necessity of again claiming the public indulgence; but when the cause is known, they trust that without further preface it will plead their apology.

Mrs. Entwisle has been suddenly and seriously attacked with a violent indisposition; so much so as to prevent her appearance for some time. TIMOUR THE TARTAR will, however, without fail, be presented on Saturday next, and Mrs. Durang will, in the interim, prepare herself for the part of Zorilda. The temporary delay will be attended with this advantage, that several of the pieces of machinery which were not quite finished will be entirely ready, and the spectacle elicit a much greater degree of splendor and magnificence.

On SATURDAY EVENING, FEB. 7,
(And no postponement on any account whatever)
Will be presented the grand spectacle of
TIMOUR the TARTAR,
WITH ENTIRE NEW SCENERY, MACHINERY, DRESSES AND DECORATIONS,

The scenery painted by Mr. Grain and assistants, the machinery by Messrs. Varden, Ashe and assistants.

A description of the most prominent scenery, &c.

Act 1. The interior of Timour's Fortress, with a BRIDGE in the back ground—on one side of the stage a TOWER in which Agib is confined. A MAGNIFICENT PROCESSION of the Tartars over the Bridge on HORSEBACK, conducting ZORILDA, who is mounted on a Courser richly caparisoned; the COURSER KNEELS and Zorilda dismounts.

Scene 3. A SPIRITED TOURNAMENT. Timour and Zorilda enter and seat themselves on thrones to witness the who at that moment enter the LISTS on HORSEBACK. Kerim's Horse takes part in the combat, and drags Sanballat to the ground. Kerim dismounts and proposes to renew the combat on foot—the horses are led away and the fight begins. Kerim falls and loses his sword; his rival rushes to despatch him: at that instant, Kerim's Horse interposes to save his Master.

Combat of Kerim & Sanballat,

Sanballat in fury stabs the Horse,

Who falls and expires at his Master's feet.

Act 2. A splendid BRIDAL CHAMBER, belonging to Timour.

The Last Scene represents TIMOUR'S FORTRESS BY MOONLIGHT. A TREMENDOUS CATARACT & WATERFALL over which is an arched bridge. One side of the stage represents the EXTERIOR of TIMOUR'S FORTRESS. A variety of smaller Towers and Terraces appear in the perspective.

During this scene, the Georgians and Mingrelians engage the Tartars on horse and foot. Timour himself ON HORSEBACK appears and encourages his troops—he becomes personally engaged, and is dismounted—he is pursued and not having time to enter a PORTCULLIS leading to the interior of his castle, he climbs the battlements, and reaches in safety the TURRET'S TOP—he brings forth Zorilda and threatens to destroy her unless Agib, who has escaped to the Georgians, is restored to him—she breaks from him and runs to the bridge, from which she leaps into the water—Agib on horseback rushes after her.—The Georgians with a BATTERING-RAM make a breach in Timour's castle—ALL THE HORSES ENTER.—At the conclusion of the General Engagement, Agib having recovered his mother, returns with her on horseback. TIMOUR IS OVERTHROWN, but Zorilda spares his life at the intercession of Agib and Oglou.

Valuable Land for Sale.

THE subscriber wishes to sell two valuable Tracts of Land—one situated in the upper part of Fairfax county, adjoining the lands of Samuel G. Griffith, and bounded north by the Potomac river, containing 700 acres, about one half in wood; of the cleared land a considerable proportion is first river bottom, equal in fertility to any in Virginia: the upland is well situated for farming and of a good quality. There is also a mill seat on the Tract of considerable value. This farm is worth the attention of any person wishing to engage in the farming business, as it certainly is not exceeded by any in the county (perhaps state) as a farm of profit, and may be had on reasonable terms. Mr. John Bickaler, who resides near the land, will shew it, and Mr. Wm. M'Carty of Loudoun county, or Mr. John W. Bronaugh of Georgetown, D. C. will make known the terms. If this Tract is not disposed of before the 2nd of MARCH, it will then be exposed to PUBLIC SALE, at Wiley's Tavern, on the road leading from Alexandria to Leesburg.

The other Tract contains 1000 acres, and is the upper and most valuable part of the Tract I live on. It is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and bounded N. by Accotink creek. This Tract will be divided to suit purchasers, if found necessary. Persons wishing to purchase will apply to the subscriber living at Cedar Grove, who will shew the land and make known the terms.

James Kennedy & Son,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from LEE's MEDICINE STORE, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly gratifying to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.
